1.9 Under a header like “Bereich Forschungsmethoden und Forschungspraxis” you will find the sub-modules belonging to this module domain. In this case “Sprache, Kommunikation und Kognition – Überblick/Language, Communication and Cognition – Overview”, “Statistik/Statistics”, et cetera:

1.10 It is under these sections, below the puzzle pieces that you will find the actual courses that are on offer or will be on offer at some point during the course of your Master’s programme.

1.11 If you, for example, click Statistik/Statistics you will see that there are two courses that may or may not be on offer:

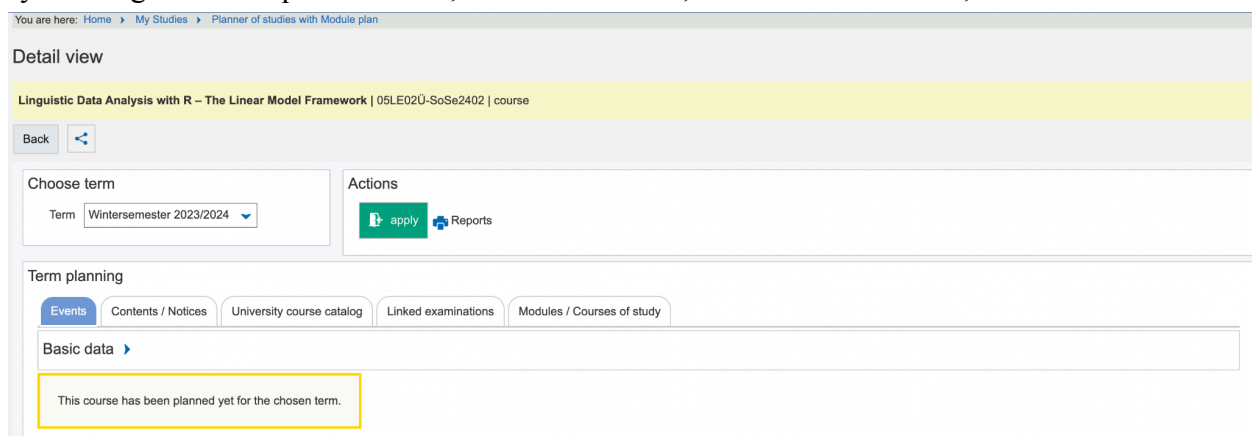

1.12 Let us look at the section “Statistik in Linguistik und Kognitionswissenschaft II/Statistics in Linguistics and Cognitive Science II” as an example. When you click this tab you will see yet two sub-sections; let us not worry about the second one for now and just look at the first:

1.13 It is under the single, open book-symbol such as this one where you will find the actual courses on offer. Once you have clicked it you have two options, either you can access further information about the course by clicking the blue link and the course’s name, or you can apply for it. Let us first click the blue link and read about the course:

1.14 This will take you to a page like this one — and depending on the individual course, you will find information about when and where it takes place, who teaches it, and the course content by clicking the subsequent headers, such as “Events”, “Contents / Notices”, et cetera:

1.15 From this page you can also choose to apply for the course, but as you remember, this can also be done from the previous interface:

1.16 When you press “Apply” you will be brought to a page looking something like this:

1.18 In this case there are no options — but keep in mind that some courses may be registered within different modules. For example, it might be possible to register a seminar both under your track's Specialization Domain/Schwerpunktbereich and Linguistic Supplementary Domain/Ergänzungsbereich. In those cases you will have to decide where to place it, based on your course of study. This option will appear here, at the top of the page.

2.1 This symbol, the silver star, means that this course can be taken as a Studienleistung, i.e. non-graded course work, while a gold star entails that a course can be taken as a Prüfungsleistung, i.e. graded course work. For example:

 05LE10PL-MA954-V092-MSSWLEL - Master Seminar on Structures in the World's Languages and Endangered Languages

2.3 Studienleistungen can be registered shortly after the beginning of the semester up until right before the end of the course. You can find the semester dates here.

2.4 For Prüfungsleistungen you have to be wary of the registration period, which is usually Thursday-Sunday in the fourth week of the semester. Your coordinator will provide you with the exact dates. Please note that registration for Prüfungsleistungen outside of this designated time frame is not possible.

2.5 When you click the blue link under a gold or silver star during the respective registration periods it will take you to a page like this one, where there will be an option to register for the graded (Prüfungsleistung) or non-graded (Studienleistung) course work:
